USAID, universities host dialogue

THE United States Agency for International Development (USAID) organised a two-day dialogue with the Higher Education Commission and 16 Pakistani universities hosted at the Institute of Business Administration, as per a press release. The Higher Education System Strengthening Activity brought together a network of professors American to help strengthen the performance of its partner universities. The event stimulated discussions on issues in higher education, peer-to-peer learning, and the exchange of ideas and best practices among partner universities.

The opening session of this twoday dialogue was chaired by Kate Somvongsiri, Mission Director USAID/Pakistan, alongside Professor Tariq Rafi, Chairman of Sindh Higher Education Commission. Dr Rafi said, "This initiative will advance the organisational performance of public sector universities, and we stand committed to making our programmes more demand-driven for better employability."
